

H-1B nods for Indian IT firms dip by 43% between 2015 & 2017

THE TOP SEVEN Indian IT companies experienced a whopping 43% drop in their H-1B visa approvals between 2015 and 2017, a US think-tank has said. The National Foundation for American Policy in a report said that the 8,468 new H-1B visas for Indian-based companies in the financial year 2017 equalled only 0.006% of the 1.60 million in the US labour force.

The top seven Indian-based companies received only 8,468 approved H-1B petitions for initial employment in FY17, a decline of 43% for these companies since FY15, when it received 14,792 H-1B visas.

Given that 199,000 applications were filed in FY 2017 for the FY18 cap year—105,000 in excess of the FY 2018 H-1B annual limit — even if none of these companies received new H-1B visas the annual limit still would have been reached on the first day of the April filing period, it said.

"The data indicate the problem is not which companies are receiving H-1B visas, which some contend, but that the 85,000-annual limit is too low for an economy the size of the US," it argued. Based on the H-1B visa data obtained from the US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), the foundation said that the Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) received 2,312 H-1B visas in 2017 as against 4,674 in 2015, registering a drop of 51%. —PTI
